OF AMERICA

THE LEGAL

A MONTHLY PUBLICATION OF THE CHRISTIAN LAW ASSOCIATION

JULY 2025

WHEN I THINK OF AMERICA...

When I think of America, I think of a land birthed in liberty—liberty not only to speak and assemble, but liberty to worship the Lord without fear of government interference. Our Founding Fathers were not perfect men, but they understood a perfect truth: that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights. Chief among these is the right to worship freely.

We at the Christian Law Association are privileged to witness this freedom in action every day. We speak to pastors seeking to proclaim the Gospel boldly. We advise teachers disciplined for quietly living out their faith in public schools. We help Christian business owners who refuse to compromise their beliefs, even when it costs them financially. These believers are not making headlines—but they are the heartbeat of the American church.

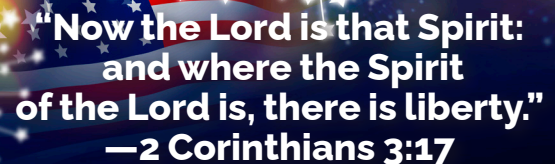

And yet, we also see another side of America—one that grieves our hearts. We see government officials who treat churches unequally. We see Christians told to remove Scripture verses from their workspaces, students barred from bringing their Bibles to school, and ministries targeted for holding to Biblical truth. This is not the America our founders envisioned.

But we are not discouraged. We are resolved.

When I think of America, I think of Christians who still kneel in prayer, families who still gather around the dinner table to read God's Word, churches who still preach the truth without compromise. I think of our attorneys—fighting daily, often behind the scenes, to ensure the next generation has the same religious freedoms we've enjoyed.

Our freedom is not free. It has been paid for by the blood of patriots—and by the sacrifice of those who stood for truth when it wasn't popular. The Christian Law Association stands with them.

Let us not take these freedoms for granted. Let us continue to speak, to serve, and to stand. Let us remember that this liberty is not man's idea—it is God's gift. And with His help, we will preserve it.

"Now the Lord is that Spirit:
and where the Spirit
of the Lord is, there is liberty."
—2 Corinthians 3:17

MY COUNTRY, 'TIS OF THEE

Lowell Mason, an important American musician in the 1800s, brought several books of German songs to Samuel Francis Smith, asking him to look for words that were especially appealing and translate them into English. When Samuel Smith read a patriotic song from a foreign nation, he was inspired to write an original poem of his own, a poem that reverently described his love for the United States. These words were first sung 194 years ago at a children's service in Boston, Massachusetts, on July 4, 1831. As we celebrate our nation's birthday this month, please take some time to allow your heart to swell with gratitude for the gift of America as you ponder these lyrics.

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From ev'ry mountainside
Let freedom ring!

My native country, thee,
Land of the noble free,
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills,
Like that above.

Let music swell the breeze,
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake;
Let all that breathe partake;
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

Our fathers' God, to thee,
Author of liberty,
To thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by thy might,
Great God, our King.

AMERICA NEEDS OUR PRAYERS

Here are some surprising and thought-provoking statistics about Christians in the United States, based on recent studies from sources like Pew Research, Barna Group, Lifeway Research, and Gallup:

1 Christianity Is Declining Rapidly

Only 63% of Americans now identify as Christian (Pew Research, 2021), down from 90% in the 1970s. If trends continue, Christians could be a minority by 2070.

2 Church Attendance Is Even Lower Than Belief

While 63% say they are Christian, only about 28–30% attend a church service once a week. That means over half of self-identified Christians don't go to church regularly.

3 Fewer Than 10% Hold a Biblical Worldview

According to Barna (2023), only 6% of U.S. adults—and just 19% of born-again Christians—have a Biblical worldview, meaning they believe in core Biblical principles like absolute moral truth and salvation through Christ alone.

4 Evangelicals Are a Small Minority

Though often highly visible, evangelical Christians make up only 23–25% of the population, and that number is shrinking, especially among young people.

5 Gen Z Christians Are Doubting More

Among Gen Z (ages 10–25), over 45% of those raised in a Christian environment say they have serious doubts about their faith, and many cite the church's stance on social issues as a reason.

6 Bible Reading Is Shockingly Rare

Only 11% of Americans read the Bible daily (American Bible Society, 2023). More than half of self-described Christians say they rarely or never read Scripture.

7 Half of Pastors Are Seriously Considering Leaving Ministry

According to Barna (2023), 42% of pastors have seriously considered quitting full-time ministry in the past year due to stress, isolation, and pressure.

8 Christian Persecution Is Increasing Domestically

Legal pressure against Christian individuals and ministries is rising.

9 A Majority of Christians Can't Define the Great Commission

A Lifeway Research study found that 51% of U.S. churchgoers have never heard of the Great Commission (Matthew 28:19–20), or can't explain what it means.

THE RELIGIOUS LIBERTY BATTLE IS NOT OVER

Through the years, the Christian Law Association has been blessed to win an unbelievable number of cases, defending the rights of churches and individual Christians to practice the religious liberty promised in the United States Constitution. But we can never make the false assumption that once something is settled, it is settled forever.

1 Courts tend to follow precedent.

If the courts allow one church in a state to have a Christian school, it is likely that they will allow all churches in the same state to have Christian schools because courts tend to follow precedent.

2 Attorneys tend to show distinctions.

In order to get a ruling that goes against established precedent, attorneys try to show how the present case is somehow different from cases in the past. They may argue something as simple as, “The cases in the past dealt with larger churches that were more likely to have qualified teachers, but the present case deals with a smaller church that is less likely to have such resources.”

3 The United States Supreme Court sometimes changes its mind.

In the matter of abortion, the Supreme Court for many years ruled that every state must allow abortions. In recent years, the Court ruled that it is acceptable for abortion rights to vary from state to state. Even long-established precedents can be overturned with a single case.

4 A recent Supreme Court decision has created some confusion.

In most cases involving public schools, if one group of students is allowed to express their thoughts, then all groups are. But when a school on the East Coast allowed some students to wear shirts that said, “He, She, They. It’s All OK” but disallowed one student to wear a shirt that said, “There are only two genders,” the Supreme Court refused to hear the case, thereby allowing the school to exercise viewpoint discrimination.

5 Please continue to pray for the Christian Law Association.

Because of the nature of the law in the United States, our work defending Christian liberty is never done. We are determined to continue winning cases in the future, just as we have in the past; but we know we cannot do so without God’s help. We humbly ask all our supporters to keep us in their prayers.

ARE YOU PREPARED FOR THE UNEXPECTED?

Though it is thankfully rare, ministry workers need to know what to do when they come across an unknown substance in a suspicious package. Staff members need to be trained to put down the package immediately without attempting to clean up any released powder or liquid, and without attempting to brush off the substance from clothing or skin. Then turn off all HVAC systems immediately to prevent a potentially harmful substance from getting into the air circulation system and being spread throughout the building. These procedures seem like simple common sense, but because they occur so rarely, staff members should be periodically reminded of these actions to keep them at the top of their minds.

If you need to establish emergency response policies for your ministry, please contact our offices for further information.

COMPUTERS AND INCIDENT MANAGEMENT FORMS

When they are used effectively, computers can streamline work and make churches much more efficient. But mistakes happen, and not all of these are innocent errors. CLA recommends that churches adopt an Incident Management Procedure when there are issues with technology, including theft and data corruption.

Proper management procedures can help legally protect the church. These procedures include identifying the scope of the incident, creating an Incident Management Form, notifying the supervisor of the person who caused the incident, and defining a resolution.

If you need additional information about this important topic, contact our offices today.
